Introduction

Chapter 1

Phonology

Phonology regards the phonemes incorporated into the language, consonants or vowels, and their use in syllables and words.

1.1 Consonants

Manner/Point of articulation	Bilabial	Labiodental	Alveolar	Postalveolar	Palatal	Velar	Uvular
Nasal	m		n
Plosive	p b		t d			k g
Fricative		f v	s z	ʃ ʒ			ʁ
Approximant					j
Lateral approximant			l

Table 1.1 – Consonants in Deěreě

Romanization is done with the IPA symbols, that is, the ones in table , except for ʃ, ʒ and ʁ, which are written respectively as sh, zh and r.

1.2 Vowels

The nine vowels are as described (IPA and orthography) in table .

	Front	Back
Closed	/i/, /y/ <ù>	/u/
Mid	/e~ɛ/, /ẽ(j)/ <ëi>, /ø~œ/ <ë>	/o~ɔ/
Open	/a/	/ã/ <ã>

5.2.1 Ēj un naklēr'ūr dēsish'rù — The King of All Snakes

This was the first 'poem' written in Deēreē.

Asaber ěj edan'a mete're,
Akùt'er i noshi nushata lavēdā'ar,
Atraùt'er ěj lēlù aal eùt ěj eltol'ra nēn'rù,
Asākrer ěj adal tis'mù mik'rù ak ādijl'rar.
Iszher kerbo pitrēk'ù ùsaat ěj un naklēr'ūr dēsish'rù.
Sabeser un'me, kùs'er un'me, traùs'er un'me, sākreser un'me, osket dēsish'ù.
Dēsistis'rù kla drēiej āgret kiden'me.
Pa vimēilf're nājlat un grebas eltol'mar.

English translation

Hear the river's laugh,
See in the sky the clouds swim,
Know the calm of the great wind bird,
Love the riches and flowers of this old place.

In the yellow mangrove lives the king of all snakes.
Everything you hear, everything you see, everything you know, everything you love, belongs to the king.
This noble being hasn't finished ruling his kingdom.
Every bird that flies sings his just name.
